

The Inn (Location)

Taking place in the 1950's, the story's main location is Quinn's Comfort Inn; a roadside motel and diner. The place is a cozy two-story mountain lodge with a basement.

Main floor

1. First Floor: The first floor has three distinct areas.
 - a. Main Lobby: it's large and has:
 - i. Front Desk
 - ii. Couches and large Fireplace
 - iii. Stairs going up to second floor
 - iv. Stairs going down to basement/cellar
 - b. Dining Area
 - i. 50's style Dining Lounge with tables and chairs
 - ii. Kitchen (can maybe be viewed from lounge)
 - c. Quinn's Office (Door Locked requires key)

Quinn's desk and a sofa bed make up the furniture. There is a secret trap door that leads into the cellar. A ring of spare keys can be found on the desk while a broken bottle of chardonnay can be found hidden underneath the sofa.

Upstairs

2. Second Floor: The second floor is divided down the middle by a long hallway. There are five standard motel rooms each with a bed, closet, small table and chair.
 - a. Suite 01: nothing interesting here
 - b. Suite 02: nothing interesting here
 - c. Suite 03:

There is an envelop filled with unpaid parking tickets
 - d. Suite 04: (Door Locked requires key)

Unlike the other rooms this one has an unmade bed. Both a police badge and a book about ancient Egyptian deities can be found underneath the pillow. A receipt for a waiter's costume can be found in a trash can.
 - e. Suite 05:

There is a pair of reading glasses on top of the desk and a note beside it that reads "Today all your dreams come true."

Downstairs

3. Basement: The basement is small and unfinished space separated into two areas:

a. Basement Cellar

A cellar filled shelves of bottles and with crates full of stout, wine and ale. One crate has been opened and is missing a bottle of wine. Behind a shelf of bottles there is a hidden ladder that leads up to Quinn's private office. At the end of the cellar there is a locked door leading into the cold storage room.

b. Cold Storage Room

Like the name implies, this a cold room filled with chilled beer, ice, and a half-frozen man that may or may not be an FBI agent.
